FENSA magazine is revamped

FENSA News, the official magazine of FENSA that is received by its 9000 plus installers has been revamped and given a new look.

FENSA News is published on a quarterly basis and aims to provide FENSA Registered Businesses with an update of what is happening at FENSA, the Building Regulations and other important industry issues. Some new features have been added such as installer interviews, technical guidance notes, and readers now have the opportunity to write in with their questions and comments.

Jon Vanstone, Director of Registered Businesses, FENSA, said 'The team at Unity Media have been very supportive of FENSA since the magazine was launched 6 years ago and we would like to take this opportunity to thank them for their continual support.'
