FENSA urges installers to vote against Government Tax rules that reduces workers pay

FENSA is urging its 9000 plus installation companies to sign up to a Downing Street Petition to challenge the Government's latest proposal which changes the law around taxation rules for self employed construction workers, that would reduce workers' take home pay because taxes would be increased.

The Government consultation document means that construction workers will no longer be seen as 'self-employed' but instead, will be 'deemed' employed for tax purposes. They will be required to pay PAYE and National Insurance contributions, and will not have 'employed' status. Currently, the consultation document does not apply to other categories of worker such as barristers, IT consultants or journalists.

Jon Vanstone, Director of Registered Business

As Jon Vanstone, Director of Registered Businesses said, 'With FENSA registered businesses representing over 90% of the replacement glazing industry, together as an industry, we can use the real power of our collective voices to sign challenge this tax threat. FENSA has already frozen all its prices for the eighth consecutive year in recognition of both existing and new installers. You can also help yourself by signing the petition. To find out more about the campaign, please visit the official website at <http://petitions.number10.gov.uk/newcisworkerlaws/>.'

To start benefiting from using the FENSA logo and being demanded by homeowners, please go to www.fensa.org.uk or telephone 020 7645 3700.
